After I enrolled in APU, I not only studied hard in my major but also began to follow my supervisor to research in my interested field. From June to December of 2012, I attended three academic conferences. The first one is called “Asia Pacific Conference” which was held on 7-9 December. The second one was held in Oxford, UK which is called “European economic development conference” and the third one is called “APUGSM – APU graduate school management” which was held on 17-19 January this year.

In those three academic conferences, I made more and more professors know and join my university activities and Japanese culture. Those three conferences were international conferences where a great deal of scholars and professors came from the US, UK, China, Australia, Singapore, and so on. In AP conference and APUGSM, I made two presentations which are called “How brand influences elasticity of goods” and “Non-linear dynamic in market application". In Oxford I attended the conference as a listener. Because I was the only undergraduate student in those conferences, I was asked about my research so I answered that I was an undergraduate student in Ritsumeikan Asia Pacific University in Japan. They were surprised at my abilities and research. At that moment, APU was proud of me. Especially during dinner time in Oxford, I talked with professors that came from APU who asked for my business card and promised me to visit our campuses. In those places, I made APU known by more and more scholars and famous professors. One of my research papers will be published in "Asia Pacific research" you can connect them by email (secretariat@apbersociety.org). By the way, the following one cannot be an evaluation probably, but I want to show you that my new research paper has been accepted by 39th EEA (Eastern Economic Association) conference in New York which will be held on 7-9 May 2013. I am the only undergraduate researcher and the only one from a university in Japan therefore I will make a presentation called "General Equilibrium & Dynamic in Market" in 39th EEA conference.

I am making more and more people know APU and until now, I am the only undergraduate student who can disseminate APU's culture and make more and more famous professors know our university, At the same time, I am the only one who can publish his paper and participate in those summit conferences, so I think I am the best undergraduate researcher at APU.

7) 応募理由、自己アピールなど/Reason for applying, self-appeal etc.

(文字数自由/No word count limit)

There are three reasons that made me apply.

First of all, I use a lot of money to join those activities and introduce Japanese culture. In December my professor asked me to apply for conference in research office. I tried to apply, but unluckily, there was no application available for undergraduate researchers, even graduate students. The application was only for doctors and professors. They asked me to try to apply for some others. As we know, if you attend a conference, you need to prepare a lot of things, such as making poster, spending your time to apply and also need to pay all fees by ourselves. Especially I spent a lot of money on the conference in Oxford.

The second reason is that APU encourages us to take part in international activities and make more and more people know APU as well as Japan. The purpose also encourages us to join more and more international activities and contribute the Japanese society.

The third reason is that I can encourage more and more undergraduates to join with their own research field. As I said previously, I am the only APU undergraduate researcher. If I can get the bonus by which will encourage more and more students to study hard and contribute to APU and even to whole Japanese development undoubtedly.

The above three reasons are the main reasons that motivated me to apply.
